Scootin' For Dollars

Do you wanna dance? Well, thanks to the Marlboro Music Festival, you could win more than $10,000 this summer by scootin' your boots.

Country Nights Dance Showdown, at clubs nationwide beginning this month, is just one part of the annual warm-weather celebration of country music.

Billed as the largest country dance competition in the nation, the Showdown boasts appearances by newcomers Jesse Hunter and Chely Wright, who will perform at each of the regional championships. Confederate Railroad takes the stage for the finals in Arlington, Texas on Dec. 7.

If you prefer using your ears to using your feet, the festival has a slate of performers for you: Tracy Lawrence, Clint Black, Diamond Rio, Suzy Bogguss and Brooks & Dunn will all appear at state fairs across the country as part of the event.
